WORKING PAPER

Marketing and Economics Branch

Direction générale de la commercialisation et de l'économie

Working papers are (1) interim reports completed by the staff of the Marketing & Economics Branch, and (2) research reports completed under contract. The former reports have received limited review, and are circulated for discussion and comment. Views expressed in these papers are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily represent those of Agriculture Canada.

INVENTORY OF SOURCES OF INFORMATION
USED WITHIN THE MARKETING AND ECONOMICS BRANCH

(Working Paper 6/85)

Roderick Earl McKay

Co-op Student
University of Guelph
at
Commodity Markets Analysis Division
Marketing and Economics Branch

May 1985

Roderick Earl McKay is a student at the University of Guelph. This report was prepared as part of his Co-op work term requirements while at the Commodity Markets Analysis Division, Marketing and Economics Branch. It was prepared under the supervision of Dr. Zuhair Hassan.

PREFACE AND ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

As noted in Mr. Phillip Stone's report entitled "EXPORT MARKET INFORMATION SYSTEM" of October 15, 1985 there existed a need for the creation of an inventory which would inform clients of the location and type of statistical data available and assist in the preparation of reports.

Under the supervision of Dr. Zuhair Hassan research by the author of this report was undertaken in the aim of creating such a document. Revisions to initial drafts yielded a report which is comprehensive in that it covers all divisions within the Marketing and Economics Branch. In most cases every unit of each division was thoroughly interviewed regarding all sources of information which are currently in use. It should be noted that the Modelling Unit has not been included in this document. This report evolved into a library of all sources of information (databases, trade tapes, magazines, newspapers as well as publications) which are currently in use, not only statistical sources of information.

Some explanation is required regarding the structure of this document. The Inventory is composed of two main sections: The Sources of Information listed by Directorate/Division/Unit; and The Source Dictionary.

The Sources of Information listed by Directorate/Division/Unit section contains entries for each Division within the M & E Branch (The Commodities Market Analysis Division has individual Unit Listings). This section is sub-divided into listings for The Market Analysis and Trade Policy Directorate, and The Market Development Directorate.

Each Division's entry in this section is composed of the following: The name of the division; The name of the Director (Chief) of the division; The name of a contact within this division; A listing of primary sources; and a listing of secondary sources.

Primary sources include publications and data bases which the contact person identified as being used more frequently within the day to day functioning of the division. These primary sources form the entries in the Source Dictionary: Details section. The secondary sources were identified either by the contact person or were ordered by that division for future use.

If a primary source has an asterisk beside it this means that this source of information is used as a primary source of information by another Division/Unit as well.

The second component of the Inventory is the Source Dictionary which has two sub-sections: The listings of all Primary Sources (ie. a listing of all entries in The Source Dictionary) and Databases and the Source Dictionary: Details which contains the actual entries.

Finally, each entry in the Source Dictionary: Details section contains the following: The name of the publication/database; a listing of all divisions which use this source; the publication frequency (or in the case of tapes, updates and release dates); and a description of the source (frequency of time series and a written description of the contents of the publication).

It is impossible to acknowledge everyone who has, over the past months, contributed in some fashion to the creation of this report. The author wishes to express his debt of gratitude for all the time and knowledge you have made available.

In spite of all the care on the part of the author errors invariably remain and, where they do, the responsibility is, of course, mine and errors called to my attention will be gratefully received.

Agricultural Impacts of Crow Change, Final Report, February 1983,
Bruce Kirk, Food Markets Analysis Division, M & E Branch, Agriculture
Canada

Used by:

FOOD MARKETS ANALYSIS DIVISION

Published:

Final Report - February 1983

Description:

The purpose of the report is to present estimates of the potential impacts on agriculture of various proposals that have been made to restructure the Crow rates.

Chapter I contains the Introduction or purpose of the report as outlined above.

Chapter II contains a qualitative assessment of both the impacts that the Crow has had and the implications that Crow change will have on the grain, livestock and grain-using industries in both western and eastern Canada.

Chapter III provides a description of what impacts have been measured with a summary of how the analysis was carried out, with further details given in the appendices.

Chapter IV and V discuss the empirical estimates of both the real final product and net farm income impacts with the complete estimates given in Appendices IV and V.

Chapter VI assesses the results and indicates that the projected impacts should be interpreted only as orders of change (i.e. small impacts can likely be discounted).

Agricultural Situation Annual Report, Attache Report, From: Post,
To: Foreign Agricultural Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture

Used_by: MARKET IMPROVEMENT DIVISION

Published:
Annually

Notes: This is not official USDA data.

publications

Used_by:

FOOD MARKETS ANALYSIS DIVISION

Published:

Annually

Description:

The reports on individual industries are generally similar to each other in character and include such principal statistics as: number of establishments; number and type of employees, and their salaries and wages; cost of fuel and electricity; value of shipments of good of own manufacture; and value added. Comparative statistics are given for Canada for earlier years and for the preceding year for provinces. Also shown are the value and where applicable, quantities of major products shipped and purchased materials used by establishments classified to the industry (this data is not available elsewhere). Some reports show total manufacturers' shipments of relevant commodities without regard to industry of origin, but this is given comprehensively for all commodities in an annual report on products shipped by Canadian manufacturers.

Primarily because annual surveys cannot be initiated until the end of the calendar year and because of the time required to collect edit and compile extensive data, most annual industry reports are not available until a year or more after the end of the year of the survey.

There are a large number of publications that are published more frequently than once a year and that contain current information on commodities (generally shipments, production or consumption). Although not exactly suitable to industry analyses, except in the case of one-industry commodities, they have proven to be most useful in commodity analyses.

This publication also provides a list of establishments classified to the industry by province and by employment size range.

Business America, The Magazine of International Trade, U.S. Department of Commerce, International Trade Administration

Used by: MARKET IMPROVEMENT DIVISION

Published: Bi-weekly

Notes: This is a very good source of international information.

Description: Business America presents predominantly U.S. related articles, while the features section involves worldwide trade, business outlooks, opportunities and foreign market briefs.

Canada Livestock and Meat Trade Report (Blue Book), Market Information Service, Marketing Services Division, M & E Branch, Agriculture Canada

Used by:

CMAD/Livestock Unit
INTERNATIONAL TRADE POLICY DIVISION

Published:

Weekly

Notes:

There is a one week lag time between information and publication.

Time series are weekly and year-to-date in format.

The trade data included is unofficial, but is the most up-to-date available.

Description:

Summarizes the market situation of the Canadian livestock and meat trade; consisting of calves, cattle, hogs, sheep and lamb. Presents statistical data on prices; slaughterings in Canada and the United States; receipts at public stockyards; gradings; and exports/imports of live animals and dressed meat. In most cases data are disaggregated by province and by month; with cumulative and comparative year figures and percentage change over previous year.

CanadExport, Domestic Information Services Division of External Affairs

Used_by: FOOD PROCESSING AND DISTRIBUTION DIVISION

Published: Bi-weekly

Description: This newsletter contains predominantly international trade information. Articles are categorized into Trade Opportunities, Trade Fairs and Trade Updates.

Canadian Grain Exports, Canadian Grain Commission

Used by:

CMAD/Grains Unit

Published:

Annually

Description:

Summarizes exports of the principal cereal grains and oilseeds during the crop year. Farmbank(Raw, Model and Derived Data bases)

Lead by: STATISTICAL ANALYSIS GROUP

Updated: Updated from field

For Further Information:
Bruce Jenkins

Description:

The following detailed description is from the "FARMBANK USER'S MANUAL".

"INTRODUCTION

FARMBANK is a computerized database developed and maintained by Agriculture Canada. Originally developed to support the Food and Agriculture Regional Model (FARM), which is a quarterly econometric model used for forecasting and policy analysis, FARMBANK provides users with access to a wide range of agricultural and food-related data for Canada, the U.S., and other selected countries or regions. Priority has been placed on ensuring that the database is comprehensive, systematic, up-to-date, thoroughly documented, and easily accessible. FARMBANK is maintained on TROLL, a state-of-the-art interactive econometric package that provides not only an efficient system of data storage and retrieval, but also the analytical tools necessary to manipulate, analyze, and present FARMBANK data.

DATA

FARMBANK comprises approximately 2000 time series that begin, in most cases, at least as early as 1763. Coverage includes commodities such as the major grains and oilseeds, livestock and poultry, etc., as well as agricultural products at the wholesale or retail level. Examples of information available for each commodity or agricultural product include, where appropriate, price, stocks, production, trade, acreage, yield, etc. In addition, certain non-agricultural time series are available in FARMBANK, such as interest rates, per capita disposable income, and exchange rates.

There are three distinct types of time series data used at Agriculture Canada to support FARM: RAW, CANSIM, and DERIVED data. RAW data are obtained and updated regularly from published and other sources, and serve as a foundation to Statistics Canada's Canadian Socio-Economic Information Management System (CANSIM) Minibase. Quarterly DERIVED data, used directly in FARM, are transformations of RAW and CANSIM data, created by executing TRILL programs and by FARMBANK provides access to both RAW and DERIVED data; access to CANSIM data is provided by the service known as distributing FARMBANK. A series of TRILL macros update FARMBANK by transferring RAW and DERIVED data to the FARMBANK database, and providing on-line documentation. At present, FARMBANK is updated by executing these TRILL macros after quarterly updating of the DERIVED data.

RAW Data

The RAW data in FARMBANK consists of about 10,000 series covering agricultural inputs and outputs broken down by geographical regions and with various periodicities. The data are updated by the Statistical Analysis Group at Agriculture Canada using publications and other information provided by sources such as Agriculture Canada, Statistics Canada, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. New series are added to the RAW database as required for use in FARM, or as otherwise requested. The RAW data are usually entered as defined by the original source in terms of units, periodicity, etc. That is, there is little transformation of published data before entry into the RAW database. Where possible, slight changes in definitions are accepted. This is an attempt to provide continuous historical time series. Detailed on-line documentation contains titles, units, sources, and notes regarding revisions, changes in definition, and explanations of how data series are constructed. Each RAW series is identified by a unique eight-character code assigned using a classification scheme consisting of five levels. A detailed description of this scheme is available on request. Briefly, however, the first level in each code is one of 10 alphabetical characters that divide the data into five primary classifications (e.g., products, primary factor inputs) and further sub-divide series as foreign or domestic. The second level (two alphabetic characters) identifies specific commodities, inputs, etc. within the primary classifications, while level three (one alphabetical character) denotes characteristics such as price, stocks, etc. Level four (three numeric digits) differentiates series that have identical codes for the first three levels, and is assigned in ascending numerical order. Finally, the fifth level indicates the periodicity of the data: weekly (W), monthly (M), quarterly (Q), semi-annual (S), and annual (A).

DERIVED DATA

DERIVED data are created by TROLL series using data from raw and data from CANSIM. Each DERIVED series is identified by a three-part mnemonic up to eight characters in length. The first part of the mnemonic denotes the variable selected (e.g. EX = exports, I = closing inventory), the second part indicates the commodity or product (e.g. WH = wheat, HO = hogs), and the third part is a numerical country identifier (e.g., 1 = Western Canada, 2 = Eastern Canada, 3 = Canada, and 4 = U.C.).

DERIVED series, like RAW data, have an identifying label consisting of titles, units, and sources. However, DERIVED series originate from CANSIM data, the CANSIM data listed as the source; also, DERIVED series created by manipulating more than one other DERIVED series are given a source. Finally, documentation of all DERIVED series includes the DO statement used to create the series. This indicates not only the RAW or CANSIM series underlying the DERIVED series, but also any transformation (e.g., compacting to quarterly by averaging) and conversion factors (e.g., from imperial to metric units, etc.).

LONGNAME

Every data series in FARMBANK, whether RAW or DERIVED, has been linked to a three-level hierarchy of TROLL archives. This hierarchy, called "LONGNAME" after the primary CANSIM archive of the same name, consists of (1) a general commodity description, such as grains, or beef; (2) a more specific commodity description, such as wheat or steers; and (3) the type of variable, such as price, production, or stocks. Within each category of archives (e.g., GRAINS_WHEAT_PRICE) is one or more series matching this description. FARMBANK users can readily identify these RAW or DERIVED series using rudimentary TROLL commands."

Trade of Canada Database

Used by:

STATISTICAL ANALYSIS GROUP

Updated:

Quarterly

Description:

The Trade of Canada Database is owned by the ITSD and is derived from dockets in/out of goods entering/leaving Canada. This information is also published.

The following detailed description is from the "User's Guide to Retrieving Time Series Information from the Agriculture Canada Trade File".

"Agriculture Canada maintains a tape file of trade data of interest to researchers at Agriculture Canada. The data consist of quantities and values of imports and exports of agricultural commodities from Canada to the rest of the world. Approximately 750 commodities and 130 countries are involved and the data are available on a monthly basis. Since individual records in the file contain information for one year and since it is normally required to access this sort of information over a longer period of time, a retrieval program was written that would 'weld' these individual records together to form time series. The time series are available in either TROLL format or DATASANK format, these being the two most widely used systems at Agriculture Canada for manipulating time series information.

At the time this manual was written (May 1978) the trade file maintained by Agriculture Canada contained 471,972 records. This number will increase as the file is updated on a quarterly basis."
